WORLDSD: PART II OP !!Xv4xTc/ZBfX 06/06/11(Mon)17:47 No.97716687

Yesterday we had a great thread on the incredibly creepy and strange game WORLDS.

Link: Worlds.com

What it is: Worlds is essentially an abandoned 3d chat simulator from the early 1998 to 200x period. Around 10 years ago it was quite literally the Second Life of its day, every single room (world) packed with people.

Today it is nothing but an abandoned place with 10 or so insane 'regulars' who sit there all day.

Why bother: To put it simply, Worlds is a fucking strange game. It not only allowed (allows) people to chat and join it, it also ALLOWS THEM TO BUILD CUSTOM WORLDS OF THEIR OWN. Normally this would be nothing of interest but the underlying STRANGENESS and general CREEPYNESS of many of the worlds make the place unusual.

Finally, aside from the insane regulars, the creepy rooms and the outright bizzare designs there is a player avatar there called Nexialist that stalks players there.

Also its free to play.

SO IN CONTINUATION OF THE THREAD FROM YESTERDAY LET THIS BEGIN.

Oh also, one of the people in yesterdays thread called this "LSD THE MMO".

This is a good description considering some of the levels.

First: Run it in admin mode.

Second if you have vista or 7 run in comp mode.

And yes it does that usually
Just wait a few minutes and if it does not work after that restart it

COPYPASTA:

What Worlds Is: An early virtual chat from the late 90's/early 00's. Although the site and official servers are up and running, nothing has been updated in a long while. A relatively small group of regulars still log on quite often. They are all fairly old, from 30 on up. Many of the user-created rooms are creepy or generally full of WTF. Even the official rooms (the ones found on the universe map) have a strangeness about them, however unintentional that may be. Perhaps the age of the client and its graphics create a sort of uncanny valley effect? Who knows.

What Worlds Isn't: A cult, viral advertising for anything, an ARG, etc. It's simply a very early model of virtual chat that has been online for a decade or so. The various worlds created by users are just very creepy. There is nothing paranormal about Worlds nor is there any kind of conspiracy. It's just creepy and fun to explore.

>To organize us /x/philes together a bit better, let's all meet up in either the Auditorium (found in the same world as the landing point) or the ground floor of Animal House (a downloadable world that can be found on the bottom right square/map).

To Download:

>http://www.worlds.net/download.html

or

>http://www-static.us.worlds.net/cgi-bin/download.cgi?action=full&bundle=WorldsCurrentVer

>Yahoo email addresses seem to be have problems with signup, but they seem to show up in spam. (?)

>Some people report that filling out the optional information makes the confirmation email be sent right away. Just fill it out with whatever.

>If you did not receive a code word and have to sign up again, 1) uninstall, 2) delete cache files and relevant history, then 3) reinstall.

>RUN AS ADMINISTRATOR

If you want to play on a Mac, you have to find a program that lets you run Windows programs. A quick Google returns this program trial: http://www.codeweavers.com/products/cxgames/ but I'm not a Mac user, so I don't how [well] that works.

MOAR PASTA

Playing - Avatars:

>Change your avatar by clicking on "VIP" (right sidebar) and choosing something from any of the first five options. After your first week, only the holographic options will be available to you.

>Customize your avatar by clicking "Customize" on the VIP menu. Another window will pop up that allows you to change the head, face, and colors.

>In order to do actions, click on "Actions" on the right side. This opens up another window. Alternatively, pressing ctrl + various letters performs actions.

>Avatars can be saved so that you don't have to recreate ones you like each time.

>New, different avatars can be found in various worlds. To get that avatar, click on them and click 'yes' on the pop-up. Remember to save the avatar for future use!

>RUN AS ADMINISTRATOR

Playing - Downloading/Entering Other Worlds:

>A map of the main worlds can be accessed by going to "Universe Map" which is located BELOW THE SIDEBAR/FRIENDSLIST.

>Click on the world you want to enter. A prompt to download will come up - click yes. Each new world needs to be downloaded, and then the program needs to be restarted.

IF YOU ARE RECEIVING ERRORS when trying to download, exit the program and restart it as an administrator! Right click on the program and choose "Run as Administrator." This should fix the problem.

>Each world has multiple rooms/miniature worlds within. Only exploring will allow you to find them. Smaller worlds/rooms within larger worlds don't need to be downloaded.

>There are many other worlds created by users that cannot be accessed from the universe map. Some can be accessed via the Travel room (located in the Beach-themed GroundZero - ask for a regular or another /x/phile who has been there to take you). Others can be accessed through those worlds within. There are probably quite a few others out there floating around, too. Exploring is the only way to find them.

Someone needs to elaborate on these 'regulars'

A picture a sad lonely housewife or neckbeard around 50 years old, that just logs into this chat room every morning and stares at the screen blankly, waiting for just someone to talk to.

What are they like? Are they happy when you log into their world?

It's odd seeing this thread here, as I found this game myself about 3 or 4 years back. It's even stranger to see Nexialist still playing his games there.

Ever since the game's overall abandonment, Nexialist has turned it's worlds into his own sick, twisted playground. I suggest that you shut the game off and stop following him. I didn't, and I've never been the same afterwards.

Nexalist took me to these same worlds I see in these screenshots. Something came over me when I was playing, and I wanted to stay logged in forever, wanted to visit all of his sick worlds. He almost had me, too.

Wait until you're about 15 hours into his travels. All these worlds you've posted are nothing compared to the ones in store.

Haven't you realized yet? These worlds are the minds and souls of the people caught in the machine. Doesn't this seem a bit overly complex for something from the 90s? Surely even you can tell that this machine is powered by more than just technology; it's powered by blood and sorcery too.

My advice to you: if you're going to take the ferryman's hand, don't let go. Nexalist has been tending his boat for a very long time.

Yes but even serial killers have their first venture into murder and then they spiral downwards.

This only makes the story more interesting.

A fellow 4chaner, like us, hanging out with his buddies on this 'game', and suddenly something clicks. He no longer values the outside world. He has more control than anyone in all that matters to him. Worlds.

Don't you see? He is no longer a mere anon like he once was.

He has become so much more.
