

Connecting the dots on the global elite...not a conspiracy theory

All evidence on the actions of these global elitists will be supplied by 'reputable' mainstream sources in this thread. I will focus on the Rothschild's, Igor Kolomoisky who financed the Ukrainian Right Sector Nazi battalions, various Ukrainian oligarchs as well as Color 'Revolution' financier George Soros.

It's an easy start as we see that the DC Leaks have revealed that George Soros was the main player behind the Ukrainian coup and the "new media/social media" rollout on Ukraine. He monitored groups in Ukraine using social media spyware, set up meetings, paid huge sums to MSM outlets to influence them, constantly was in contact and influencing US government and European government officials, pulled strings at the IMF and had direct contact, as well as provided support, with all the major players that led the coup. It is now also very well known that the 2014 Ukrainian coup was led by groups of fascist pro Nazi battalions.

Having established that Soros is a global elitists who controls world changing events, lets move along to Ukrainian oligarch Igor Kolomoisky. This is the evidence that he financed the Ukrainian Nazi battalions, hired Joe Biden's son Hunter for an offshore holding company called Burisma Holdings based in Cyprus and also stole $1.8 billion in IMF funds that were misdirected into Cyprus based offshore accounts.

Agence Presse France introduces us to Kolomoisky.....

– GUNS AND MONEY –

Dnipro-1's headquarters are on the ground floor of the Dnipropetrovsk administration building. Upstairs sits the regional governor, Igor Kolomoisky. The arrangement is no accident: Kolomoisky, one of Ukraine's most controversial billionaires, funds the paramilitary, which returns the favour in these troubled times by boosting the banking and industrial tycoon's personal security and political clout.

All the signs are of a flourishing military enterprise. Young men with Kalashnikovs and pistols and several well dressed women working on laptops fill the anteroom to Bereza's office.

Dnipro-1 has 700 men — “officially,” Bereza says with an enigmatic smile.

“Unofficially, it's 7,000.”

– DARK SIDE –

Questions over the far right leanings of some volunteer groups and allegations of involvement in the murder of civilians cast a long shadow. One of the most controversial is the Azov Battalion, which uses the Wolfsangel insignia — an ancient design that was resurrected in Hitler's Germany. The Azov has been linked to Oleg Lyashko, a politician accused of neo-Nazi sympathies.

Right Sector, an ultra-nationalist party, also has its own battalion of several hundred men on the frontlines, even if the government refuses to register or pay them. Dasha Slutskovska, a 29-year-old volunteer from the battalion in Dnipropetrovsk, conceded that Right Sector has an image problem — they are relentlessly portrayed in Russia's state-controlled media as fascists.

Naked Capitalism has the low down on Kolomoisky's offshore gas company Burisma Holdings which hired the US Vice Presidents son Hunter Biden.....

R. Hunter Biden Should Declare Who Really Owns His New Ukrainian Employer, Burisma Holdings

Posted on May 21, 2014 by Richard Smith

Here's last week's big announcement, adorned by a photograph of an American with a faintly alarming rictus; oh yes, oh dear me, yes: Hunter Biden joins the team of Burisma Holdings: Burisma Holdings, Ukraine's largest private gas producer, has expanded its Board of Directors by bringing on Mr. R Hunter Biden as a new director.

R. Hunter Biden will be in charge of the Holdings' legal unit and will provide support for the Company among international organizations. On his new appointment, he commented: "Burisma's track record of innovations and industry leadership in the field of natural gas means that it can be a strong driver of a strong economy in Ukraine. As a new member of the Board, I believe that my assistance in consulting the Company on matters of transparency, corporate governance and responsibility, international expansion and other priorities will contribute to the economy and benefit the people of Ukraine."

Undelivered Goods

How $1.8 billion in aid to Ukraine was funneled to the outposts of the international finance galaxy

Kolomoisky had built his multibillion dollar financial base partly thanks to his mastery of "raiding," the local version of mergers and acquisitions, involving methods that would make even the most hardened Wall Street financier turn pale. According to Matthew Rojansky, director of the Kennan Institute at the Woodrow Wilson Center for International Scholars, who has made a special study of the practice, "there are actual firms in Ukraine . . . registered with offices and business cards, firms [that specialize in] various dimensions of the corporate raiding process, which includes armed guys to do stuff, forging documents, bribing notaries, bribing judges." In April 2014, as the separatists advanced, Kolomoisky mobilized his workforce into a 20,000-man private army in two battalions, Dnipro-1 and Dnipro-2, and stemmed the tide. According to Wilson Center director Rojansky, Kolomoisky is “perceived as the bulwark and the reason why the whole Novorossiia project [Putin’s plan to absorb most of eastern Ukraine] broke down at the border of the Donbass.”

As the largest bank, Kolomoisky’s PrivatBank stood to garner the largest share of the international aid. Published estimates put this share as high as 40 percent. Despite the torrent of cash, the banks’ situation did not improve; nine months into the program, the IMF announced: “As of end January 2015 . . . the banking system’s capital adequacy ratio stood at 13.8 percent, down from 15.9 percent at end-June.” Where had the money gone?

In this case however, thanks to investigative work by the Ukrainian anticorruption watchdog group Nashi Groshi (“Our Money”), we can actually watch the process by which the gigantic sum of $1.8 billion was smoothly maneuvered offshore, in the first instance to PrivatBank accounts in Cyprus, and thence into accounts in Belize, the British Virgin Islands, and other outposts of the international financial galaxy. The scheme, as revealed in a series of court judgments of the Economic Court of the Dnipropetrovsk region monitored and reported by Nashi Groshi, worked like this: Forty-two Ukrainian firms owned by fifty-four offshore entities registered in Caribbean, American, and Cypriot jurisdictions and linked to or affiliated with the Privat group of companies, took out loans from PrivatBank in Ukraine to the value of $1.8 billion. The firms then ordered goods from six foreign “supplier” companies, three of which were incorporated in the United Kingdom, two in the British Virgin Islands, one in the Caribbean statelet of St. Kitts & Nevis. Payment for the orders—$1.8 billion—was shortly afterwards prepaid into the vendors’ accounts, which were, coincidentally, in the Cyprus branch of PrivatBank. Once the money was sent, the Ukrainian importing companies arranged with PrivatBank Ukraine that their loans be guaranteed by the goods on order.

But the foreign suppliers invariably reported that they could not fulfill the order after all, thus breaking the contracts, but without any effort to return the money. Finally, the Ukrainian companies filed suit, always in the Dnipropetrovsk Economic Court, demanding that that foreign supplier return the prepayment and also that the guarantee to PrivatBank be cancelled. In forty-two out of forty-two such cases the court issued the identical judgment: the advance payment should be returned to the Ukrainian company, but the loan agreement should remain in force.

As a result, the loan of the Ukrainian company remained guaranteed by the undelivered goods, while the chances of returning the advance payments from foreign companies remain remote. “Basically this transaction of $1.8 bill[ion] abroad with the help of fake contracts was simply an asset siphoning [operation] and a violation of currency legislation in general,” explained Lesya Ivanovna, an investigator with Nashi Groshi in an email to me. “The whole lawsuit story was only needed to make it look like the bank itself is not involved in the scheme . . . officially it looks like PrivatBank now owns the products, though in reality [they] will never be delivered.

The thread above also provides various evidence that the Russian government believes Igor Kolomoisky was the lead orchestrator behind the false flag shootdown of Malaysian Airlines flight MH17.

Viktor Pinchuk was also a Ukrainian oligarch that played a key role in the Ukrainian crisis and paid the Clinton Foundation $8.6 million for what appears to be political favors regarding Ukraine.

Onward and upwards we go to other big daddies.....the Rothschild's, specifically for now, Jacob Rothschild.

Its already well known that they are behind the worlds banking system so lets not go into that and instead focus on some curious current events where Jacob Rothschild plays a major role.

First lets start with the fact that Lord Rothschild started a company with Dick Cheney and Rupert Murdoch that will illegally extract natural gas from the Syrian Golan Heights. A project worth a potential $40 billion.

<http://thefreethoughtproject.com/cheney-rothschild-fox-news-murdoch-drilling-oil-syria-violation-intl-law/>

Then lets move along to the fact that when Vladamir Putin shut down and imprisoned Russian oil tycoon Mikhail Khodorkovsky who was stealing billions of dollars worth of Russia's natural resource dollars that could have gone to lifting the Russian people out of poverty, that very same Khodorkovsky transferred $8 billion to one Jacob Rothschild whose offices are directly located behind Whitehall in London.

Yukos is braced for more raids

Russian oil tycoon Mikhail Khodorkovsky has named Jacob Rothschild as a possible successor to take over his Yukos oil company if he goes to prison on fraud charges, according to reports. The Rothschilds have financed oil exploration in Russia since the Tsarist period, while Lord Rothschild has close connections with Yukos. Police raided Yukos offices in Moscow on Friday, spending nearly 17 hours searching through computer archives, the Russian financial daily Kommersant quoted a top Yukos official as saying. Mr Khodorkovsky, who has been in the United States at a conference attended by Microsoft founder Bill Gates, and is reported to be preparing for the worst ahead.

The authorities are investigating tax evasion at Yukos and rival firm Sibneft, which are due to merge to create the world's fourth-ranked producer. Mr Khodorkovsky, who has a personal fortune estimated at $8bn has been targeted by prosecutors in what is seen as a politically-driven campaign by Kremlin figures. The tycoon has been financing opposition parties ahead of December parliamentary elections, in a move analysts say breaks a 2000 agreement between President Vladimir Putin and the nation's billionaire magnates for them to keep out of politics.

And here we come to something much more recent regarding the money of the Russian people and another thief who was ripping them off.

<https://www.rt.com/news/359330-russia-corruption-bank-switzerland/>

About €300 million ($336 million) was found in Swiss bank accounts of the father of Russia's anti-corruption agency head, media reports. The news comes days after police arrested Dmitry Zakharchenko and found over $122 million in cash at his Moscow home.

Law enforcement agencies found documents about the accounts of offshore firms registered in the name of Zakharchenko's father Viktor, according to a source speaking to Rosbalt news agency.

"Six bank accounts like this were found mostly at Rothschild Bank and the Dresdner Bank, with each having between €45 million and €47 million. This is more than €300 million," the source added.

The source described the amounts on the Swiss accounts as being "colossal," while the authorities are trying to find out where the money came from. "It's clear that we are not only talking about money from Nota-Bank, as it was previously perceived," the source mentioned.

NOTA-Bank had its license revoked by the Russian Central Bank in November. Zakharchenko's lawyer Yury Novikov said that his client did not know anything about the Swiss bank accounts.

Ah, lucky Lord Rothschild strike again! Nothing to see here though.

Now lets move back in time to the older Rothschild's and the Balfour Agreement letter in 1917. You already know the story that it was Rothschild who initially called for the creation of Israel.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Balfour_Declaration

Excerpt: The Balfour Declaration was a letter dated 2 November 1917 from the United Kingdom's Foreign Secretary Arthur James Balfour to Walter Rothschild, 2nd Baron Rothschild

And you know that Israel was set up by the British House of Lords in 1947, of which, of course, the older Lord Rothschild had profound influence over the issue being behind the Bank of England. The Palestinians were tossed under the bus by the Brits at that time and the Rothschild's were able to procure land in Palestine even before the 1940's war. Then in 1947 Israel was established. The Rothschild family then went on to play the leading role by funding the new Israel's governmental infrastructure. James A. de Rothschild financed the Knesset building as a gift to the State of Israel and the Supreme Court of Israel building was donated to Israel by Dorothy de Rothschild. Outside the President's Chamber is displayed a letter Mrs. Rothschild wrote to the then current Prime Minister Shimon Peres expressing her intention to donate a new building for the Supreme Court.

The Knesset compound sits on a hilltop in western Jerusalem in a district known as Sheikh Badr before the 1948 Arab-Israeli War, now Givat Ram. The main building was financed by James de Rothschild as a gift to the State of Israel in his will and was completed in 1966.

Considering the influence the older Lord Rothschild and his family had over the decision conducted by the British to establish Israel in the Balfour letter, one should wonder why in 1947, the same British government that set up the state of Israel and supplied the land rights to the Rothschild's would also repatriate 7,100 Ukrainian Waffen SS who killed over 100,000 poles and Jews at Volhynia and Eastern Galicia

Ukrainian SS 'Galicia' Division allowed to settle in Britain

August 2005

Recent releases at The National Archives

Home office papers reveal how 7,100 Ukrainian men from the 14th Waffen SS 'Galicia' Division were allowed to settle in Britain in order to protect them from persecution in Stalinist controlled Ukraine. The documents follow the case of the Ukrainian soldiers, from their capture in Italy by British forces to Britain's reaction to an Italian treaty with the Soviet Union to repatriate the men. Former soldiers of the Galicia Division – approximately 8,500 Ukrainians who, during the Second World War, fought in the ranks of the Galicia Division (see below) formed as part of the German armed forces, and who were transferred to the United Kingdom after the war.

In May 1945, when Germany surrendered to the Allied Powers, the Galicia Division was based in Austria. Retreating westwards to avoid capture by the advancing Soviet Red Army, most of its members (about 10,000) surrendered to the British Army and were temporarily interned near Spittal. The Soviet authorities claimed that the Ukrainian members of the division were Former soldiers of the Galicia Division at the Hallmuir POW camp near Lockerbie, Scotland. 1948.

Soviet citizens and demanded their repatriation to the USSR on the basis of an agreement reached at the Yalta Conference in February 1945. The British government's position, however, was that the agreement only applied to persons who were Soviet citizens before September 1939, and therefore did not apply to the majority of the division's members, who were originally from pre-war Polish-ruled Galicia. Only the relatively small number of those who came from the pre-war USSR were subject to the agreement, but even in these cases the British government was reluctant to enforce repatriation.

In May and at the beginning of June 1945 the division was transferred to Italy and interned in a camp near Bellaria on the Italian east coast. There, about 1,000 division members were persuaded by a Soviet repatriation commission to return to the Soviet Union voluntarily. In October 1945 the remaining members of the division were moved to a camp near Rimini, a short distance from Bellaria.

From the end of 1945 the British government began to consider how to deal with the division's members in the longer term. The matter became more urgent in February 1947 when the Allied Powers signed the Treaty of Peace with Italy, due to come into force in September of the same year. Britain did not wish to leave the division behind after removing its troops from Italy, fearing the Italian government might succumb to Soviet demands for the forced repatriation of the Ukrainians. On 1 April 1947 the British Cabinet took the decision to transfer the division to the UK. Whereas in Italy its members were designated surrendered enemy personnel, upon transfer to the UK they were reclassified as prisoners of war.

During May and June of 1947, 8,570 Ukrainians were transported by sea from Venice to Britain. The group included 17 female nurses, a number of priests and several civilian relatives of members of the division. The ex-soldiers were accommodated in prisoner-of-war camps, mainly in eastern England and southern Scotland. Most were engaged to work as agricultural labourers, where they earned a reputation as conscientious workers.

The transfer of the division to the UK was initially viewed by the British government as a temporary measure forced upon them by circumstances, rather than a long term solution, and discussions about the future of the ex-soldiers continued. The Home Office, in particular, sought opportunities for removing them from the UK. The possibility of transferring groups of the men to Canada, the USA and Argentina were investigated, but proved unrealistic at the time. In November 1947 the Ministry of Agriculture began to consider the possibility of including some of the ex-soldiers in the European Volunteer Workers (EVW) scheme, under which it was recruiting workers from displaced persons camps in Germany and Austria. At first, the ministry was prepared to take 4,700 of the ex-soldiers, while the remainder, including those in poor health or disabled, were to be transferred to the British Zone of Occupation of Germany. This led to protests by the Association of Ukrainians in Great Britain and a number of British charities. Eventually, as a result of the rising demand for additional labour, it was decided that almost all of the ex-members of the Galicia Division would be released from prisoner-of-war status and engaged to work under the EVW scheme. The process was carried out between August and October 1948.

In December 1948 a decision was taken to deport to Germany at the end of the month about 300 ex-members of the division. In protest against the decision, a general strike of Ukrainian EVWs took place on 28 December 1948. Two days later the Home Office announced that only 81 persons were to leave: 45 who chose to go, mainly to rejoin relatives, and 36 with records of unsatisfactory behaviour as prisoners of war. As a result, over 8,000 former soldiers of the Galicia Division were allowed to remain in the UK as EVWs. Many of them subsequently emigrated to other countries.

Galicia Division

The Galicia Division was a Ukrainian military formation within the German armed forces in the Second World War, created in Western Ukraine (specifically the Galicia District of the German-occupied Generalgouvernement) to fight on the Eastern front against Soviet forces.

The formation was created as the 14th division of the "armed SS" (Waffen-SS), one of many Waffen-SS divisions composed of non-German volunteers and conscripts in various countries occupied by Germany. Its creation was announced on 28 April 1943 in Lviv, and had the support of Galician Ukrainian leaders who viewed the division as the potential nucleus of a future Ukrainian national army. Initially, the division consisted mainly of Ukrainians from Galicia, but subsequently it also took on recruits from other parts of Ukraine, including Soviet army personnel taken prisoner by the Germans.

Here's who they killed.....

Massacres of Poles in Volhynia and Eastern Galicia

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

The massacres of Poles in Volhynia and Eastern Galicia (Polish: rzeź wołyńska, literally: Volhynian slaughter; Ukrainian: Волинська трагедія, Volyn tragedy), was an ethnic cleansing^[1] or a genocide^{[2][3][4]} carried out in Nazi German-occupied Poland by the Ukrainian Insurgent Army (the UPA) against Poles in the area of Volhynia, Eastern Galicia, parts of Polesia and Lublin region, beginning in 1943 and lasting up to 1945.^[1] The peak of the massacres took place in July and August 1943. Most of the victims were women and children.^[5] UPA's methods were particularly brutal, with many of the victims being tortured and mutilated,^{[6][7]} and resulted in 40,000–60,000 Polish deaths in Volhynia and 30,000–40,000 in Eastern Galicia, with the other regions for the total about 100,000.^{[8][9][10][11]}

The killings were directly linked with the policies of the Bandera faction of the Organization of Ukrainian Nationalists (OUN-B) and its military arm, the Ukrainian Insurgent Army, whose goal as specified at the Second Conference of the OUN-B on 17–23 February 1943 (or March 1943 according to other sources) was to purge all non-Ukrainians from the future Ukrainian state.^[12] Not limiting their activities to the purging of Polish civilians, the UPA also wanted to erase all traces of the Polish presence in the area.^[13] The violence was endorsed by a significant number of the Ukrainian Orthodox clergy who supported UPA's nationalist cause.^[14] The massacres led to a wider conflict between Polish and Ukrainian forces in the German-occupied territories, with the Polish Home Army in Volhynia^[15] responding to the Ukrainian attacks.^{[16][17]}

In 2008, the massacres committed by the Ukrainian nationalists against the Poles in Volhynia and Galicia were described by Poland's Institute of National Remembrance as bearing the distinct characteristics of a genocide,^{[18][19]} and on 22 July 2016 Poland's parliament passed a resolution recognizing the massacres as genocide.^{[20][21]}

Eastern Galicia [edit]

In late 1943 and early 1944, after most Poles in Volhynia had either been murdered or had fled the area, the conflict spread to the neighboring province of Galicia, where the majority of the population was still Ukrainian, but where the Polish presence was strong. Unlike in the case of Volhynia, where Polish villages were usually destroyed and their inhabitants murdered without warning, in east Galicia Poles were sometimes given the choice of fleeing or being killed. An order by a UPA commander in Galicia stated, "Once more I remind you: first call upon Poles to abandon their land and only later liquidate them, not the other way around"). This change in tactics, combined with better Polish self-defense and a demographic balance more favorable to Poles, resulted in a significantly lower death toll among Poles in Galicia than in Volhynia.^[94] The methods used by Ukrainian nationalists in this area were the same, and consisted of rounding up and killing all the Polish residents of the villages, then looting the villages and burning them to the ground.^[43] On February 28, 1944, in the village of Korosciatyn 135 Poles were murdered;^[95] the victims were later counted by a local Roman Catholic priest, Rev. Mieczysław Kamiński.^[96] Jan Zaleski (father of Fr. Tadeusz Isakowicz-Zaleski) who witnessed the massacre, wrote in his diary: "The slaughter lasted almost all night. We heard terrible cries, the roar of cattle burning alive, shooting. It seemed that Antichrist himself began his activity!"^[97] Father Kamiński claimed that in Koropiec, where no Poles were actually murdered, a local Greek Catholic priest, in reference to mixed Polish-Ukrainian families, proclaimed from the pulpit: "Mother, you're suckling an enemy – strangle it."^[98] Among the scores of Polish villages whose inhabitants were murdered and all buildings burned, there are such places as Berezowica near Zbaraz, Ithrowica near Ternopil, Plotych near Ternopil, Podkamien near Brody, and Hanachiv and Hanachivka near Przemyślany.^[99]

Roman Shukhevych, a UPA commander, stated in his order from 25 February 1944: "In view of the success of the Soviet forces it is necessary to speed up the liquidation of the Poles, they must be totally wiped out, their villages burned ... only the Polish population must be destroyed."^[31]

One of the most infamous massacres took place on February 28, 1944, in the Polish village of Huta Pieniacka, with over 1,000 inhabitants. The village served as a shelter for refugees including Polish Jews,^[100] as well as a recuperation base for Polish and Communist partisans. One AK unit was active there. In the winter of 1944, a Soviet partisan unit numbering 1,000 was stationed in the village for two weeks.^{[100][101][102]} Huta Pieniacka's villagers, although poor, organized a well-fortified and armed self-defense unit that fought off a Ukrainian and German reconnaissance attack on February 23, 1944.^[103] Two soldiers of the 14th Waffen Grenadier Division of the SS Galicia (1st Ukrainian) Division of the Waffen-SS were killed and one wounded by the villagers. On February 28, elements of the Ukrainian 14th SS Division from Brody returned with 500–600 men, assisted by a group of civilian nationalists. The killing spree lasted all day. Kazimierz Wojciechowski, the commander of the Polish self-defense unit, was drenched with gasoline and burned alive at the main square. The village was utterly destroyed and all of its occupants killed.^[101] The civilians, mostly women and children, were rounded up at a church, divided and locked in barns which were set on fire.^[104] Estimates of casualties in the Huta Pieniacka massacre vary, and include 500 (Ukrainian archives),^[105] over 1,000 (Tadeusz Piotrowski),^[106] and 1,200 (Sol Littman).^[107] According to IPN investigation, the crime was committed by the 4th battalion of the Ukrainian 14th SS Division^[104] supported by UPA units and local Ukrainian civilians.^[108]

A military journal of the Ukrainian 14th SS Division condemned the killing of Poles. In a March 2, 1944, article directed to the Ukrainian youth, written by military leaders, Soviet partisans were blamed for the murders of Poles and Ukrainians, and the authors stated that "If God forbid, among those who committed such inhuman acts, a Ukrainian hand was found, it will be forever excluded from the Ukrainian national community."^[109] Some historians deny the role of the Ukrainian 14th SS Division in the killings, and attribute them entirely to German units, while others disagree.^[110]^[verification needed] According to Yale historian Timothy Snyder, the Ukrainian 14th SS Division's role in the ethnic cleansing of Poles from western Ukraine was marginal.^[111]

I would simply ask the question, what was going on here? Why did the UK repatriate an entire regiment of Ukrainian Waffen SS who shot naked Jewish women and children in the back of the head while they fell into pits that were then set on fire with some victims still alive? Who, specifically, made the decision to repatriate them?

Regarding the UK's actions towards Israel and the Rothschild's, it should also be considered why the UK and US supplied tetraethyl lead for fuel to IG Farben who were the largest company in Germany and were fueling Adolph Hitler's war machine. Now I don't know where all this leads or what these global elitists are up to but it seems to me that things being reported in the media are not necessarily the truth and the history of the past that we are taught is rife with inaccuracies and omissions. I always preface my posts that are conspiracy theories with a message that "this is a conspiracy theory of mine", however, this time around I will not do so as the information above is all sourced from well established mainstream media outlets, the historical records of the UK, Wikipedia, well established professional writers and my previous sourced posts. I hope people ask more questions about what is really going on with the global elite behind these life and death situations.

Taking this further:

Post WWII its worth starting with Bretton Woods then establishment of the UN the next year

Bretton Woods led to the IMF and World Bank tools of the global elite used for asset stripping and debt slavery while the UN served as new way to control the NWO. All these institutional tools of the global elite were established around the same time right at the end of the 2nd World War, a war that I believe the global elite played a major role in causing. I believe that the wars serve as a means to implement these massive tools that the elite put in place to maintain control and we may see similar tools implemented due to the current wars. The global elite never back down, they just keep steamrolling for control.

The IMF was established by a number of influential European banking families and is 51% controlled by the US Federal Monetary Reserve but it is also believed by many people that that institution is also under the control of the worlds richest banking family, the Rothschild's as well as other major bankers/players, same as the IMF. These connections are difficult to prove without documentation but not difficult to speculate upon considering the Rothschild's history of controlling the worlds money and the famous story of the Creature of Jekyll Island in 1913 where Rothschild representatives played the most important roles.

was probably the most important person at the meeting because of his knowledge of banking as it was practiced in Europe. He was a partner in Kuhn, Loeb & Company and was a representative of the Rothschild banking dynasty in England and France where he maintained a very close working relationships throughout his entire career with his brother, Max Warburg, who was the head of the Warburg banking consortium in Germany and the Netherlands. He was also one of the wealthiest men in the world at the time.

He also founded and became the first director of the Council on Foreign Relations at its founding in 1921. The CFR being another tool of the global elite used to oversee US foreign policy.

Wikipedia currently suffices fine for the low down on Warburg.

Death[edit]

Warburg died at his home in New York City on January 24, 1932, and was buried in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery in Sleepy Hollow, New York. At the time of his death he was chairman of the Manhattan Company and a director of the Bank of Manhattan Trust Company, Farmers Loan and Trust Company of New York, First National Bank of Boston, Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, Union Pacific Railroad, Los Angeles & Salt Lake Railroad, Western Union Telegraph Company, American I.G. Chemical Company, Agfa Ansco Corporation, and Warburg & Company of Amsterdam.

Note this entry: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/American_IG

Yes, you guessed it. Its the very same I.G. as in I.G. Farben that fueled Hitler's war machine.

Excerpt:

American IG owes its genesis to a German business conglomerate, namely, Interessens-Gemeinschaft Farbenindustrie AG, or IG Farben for short. The business, along with the industrial empire that "IG" controlled and commanded, has been described as "a state within a state."

The Farben cartel was created in 1925, when Hermann Schmitz, the master organizer, with Wall Street financial assistance, created the giant chemical corporation, combining six already giant German chemical companies — Badische Anilin- und Sodafabrik Ludwigshafen (BASF), Bayer, Agfa, Hoechst, Weiler-ter-Meer, and Griesheim-Elektron. These six companies were merged into Interessen-Gemeinschaft Farbenindustrie AG or, IG Farben, for short.

In year 1928, the American holdings of IG Farben, namely, the American branches of Bayer Company, General Aniline Works, Agfa Ansco, and Winthrop Chemical Company, were organized into a Swiss holding company, which was named Internationale Gesellschaft für Chemische Unternehmungen AG or IG Chemie, in short. The controlling interest of this entity rested with IG Farben in Germany. In the following year, 1929, just a decade before the outbreak of the Second World War, these American firms merged to become American IG Chemical Corporation, or American IG, later renamed General Aniline & Film.

On the eve of World War II, IG Farben, the German chemical conglomerate, was the largest manufacturing enterprise in the world and exercised extraordinary economic and political clout in Nazi Germany. In 1936, it was the principal source for Zyklon B, the poison used in German concentration camps. From 1942-1945, the company used slave labor from Nazi concentration camps. After 1945, three members of the board of governors of American IG were tried and convicted as German war criminals. In 1952, IG Farben was split into BASF, Bayer, and Hoechst again.

So there you have it. This man led the creation of the US Federal Reserve and the Council on Foreign Relations and also was the chairman and director of American I.G., the US branch of I.G. Farben that supplied the gas for gas chambers and fueled the German war machine in WW2. It seems clear from this action that it wasn't simply just Hitler who was exterminating prisoners. Others also had a hand in the matter, including a number of directors at large companies based in the US, Germany and Switzerland.

Quite a wicked web was woven by Paul Warburg it seems. His name seems quite fitting. Metaphorically, he seems to have been quite the Judas.

A lot of the information I supply on the subject came from the following sources. It grows quite complex, so I will provide mainly links as it is difficult to provide a 100% certifiable direct connection for the Jekyll Island meeting. First, this book explains that the Warburg's aspired to be agents of the Rothschild's and how Max Warburg served his apprenticeship for the Rothschild's banks in Paris and London two decades prior to WW1. In the 1890's the Warburg's started the first Hamburg loan issuing house for the Rothschild's international government loans.

The modern history project is a great source for all the connections on the nefarious actions of the global banking cabal at that time.....

Excerpt:

What John Moody did not know, or did not tell his readers, was that the most powerful men in the United States were themselves answerable to another power, a foreign power, and a power which had been steadfastly seeking to extend its control over the young republic of the United States since its very inception. This power was the financial power of England, centered in the London Branch of the House of Rothschild. The fact was that in 1910, the United States was for all practical purposes being ruled from England, and so it is today.

The ten largest bank holding companies in the United States are firmly in the hands of certain banking houses, all of which have branches in London. They are J.P. Morgan Company, Brown Brothers Harriman, Warburg, Kuhn Loeb and J. Henry Schroder. All of them maintain close relationships with the House of Rothschild, principally through the Rothschild control of international money markets through its manipulation of the price of gold. Each day, the world price of gold is set in the London office of N.M. Rothschild and Company.

Although these firms are ostensibly American firms, which merely maintain branches in London, the fact is that these banking houses actually take their direction from London. Their history is a fascinating one, and unknown to the American public, originating as it did in the international traffic in gold, slaves, diamonds, and other contraband. There are no moral considerations in any business decision made by these firms. They are interested solely in money and power.

Dr. Anthony Sutton of the Hoover Institute also explains how Wall Street firms transferred the money to Lenin and the Bolsheviks to finance the revolution. These banks were run by the global elite mentioned in the links above.

A classic interview by Professor Antony Sutton, who taught economics at California State University, and was a research fellow at Stanford University's Hoover Institution. In this talk, Prof. Sutton goes into his impeccable research on how a close-knit group of Western financiers and industrialists (centered around Morgan and Rockefeller in the US, and around Milner and the City financiers, in the UK) created and sustained their three supposed enemies right from the very beginning: Soviet Russia, Nazi Germany, and FDR's Fabian socialism.

When looking into the Warburg family its also important to note their connections to the World Zionist Organization.

Excerpt:

Otto Warburg (20 July 1859 – 10 January 1938), was a German botanist. He was also a notable industrial agriculture expert, as well as an active member of the Zionist Organization (ZO). From 1911–21, he served as the president of the ZO, which among other things, sought 'for the Jewish people a publicly and legally assured home in Palestine.'[1]

In 1911 Warburg was elected president of the World Zionist Congress in Palestine, and he remained in the office until 1920. After 1920, the Congress moved to England. But Warburg stayed in Palestine and became founding director of the Agricultural Experimental Station in Tel Aviv. It later became the 'Institute of Agriculture and Natural History'.

If one naturally connects the dots one can see how the Warburg's played a key role in setting up the Federal Reserve and other US and international organizations by themselves and proxies while the Rothschild's and Warburg's worked together to purchase land in Palestine and set up the state of Israel. The Rothschild's dominated British banking and parliament at this time, and are reputed to still do so today from offices directly behind Whitehall. At that time both families were purchasing massive amounts of land in Palestine over the twenty year period between WW1 and WW2. After WW2, the Rothschild's payed for the primary government buildings within the newly formed state. All of this was conducted mainly out of London through backroom meetings and the World Zionist Congress. In 1911 Warburg was elected president of the World Zionist Congress in Palestine, and he remained in the office until 1920. After 1920, the Congress moved to England. Then later back to Basel, Switzerland.

Incidentally, Senator Nelson Aldrich was also a servant of Rothschild's at the Jekyll Club Hotel meeting.

Here's also an interesting article where the NY Times covers up for the whole cabal and their actions during WW1 and WW2, and attempts to paint a picture of them being victims.

More here on the banking cabals inter-connections in the run up to WW1:

<http://www.revisionist.net/hysteria/bankers.html>

Excerpt:

Sometimes, the bankers financed both sides. The Rothschilds' agents, the Warburg banking house, were financing the Kaiser. Paul Warburg, a naturalized citizen from Germany who had been decorated by the Kaiser in 1912, was vice chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. He had also handled large sums furnished by Germany for Lenin and Trotsky while his brother Max (who was Kaiser Wilhelm's personal banker) was the leader of the German espionage system! It was this brother, Max, who authorized Lenin's train to pass through the lines and execute the Bolshevik Revolution in Russia. Jacob Schiff, like the Warburgs, also had two brothers in Germany during the war, Philip and Ludwig, who also were active as bankers to the German Government.

The Rothschilds meanwhile bought the German news agency, Wolff, to further control the flow of information to the German people and what the rest of the world would hear from inside Germany. One of the leading executives of Wolff was none other than Max Warburg! The Rothschilds would later buy an interest in the Havas news agency in France and Reuters in London. The tentacles of the banking families reached deep into the power elites: Dr. von Bethmann Hollweg, was the son of Moritz Bethmann from the Frankfurt banking family of Frankfurt, a cousin of the Rothschilds.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. represented the Rothschild interests in the US, and along with the Harrimans, the Goulds and the Rockefellers, became the dominant powers in the railroad and America financial world while they war-mongered to fatten themselves even more. The first available appointment on the Supreme Court of the United States which Woodrow Wilson filled was given to Kuhn-Loeb lawyer Louis Brandeis who had been selected by Jacob Schiff to carry on war agitation. Through marriage, the Kuhn Loeb Company managed to twine itself throughout the U.S. Food Administration, the British Secret Service and the Wilson White House. And on and on and on it went, like a ball of twine, tangling and tying the bankers, their progeny and their friends together for war and profits.

Now to really have your mind blown.....this relates to 3 World Wars.

Caveat: I have a Jesus versus Judas theory that implies that the Zionist Jews threw the good Jews under the bus during WW2 in order to set up the state of Israel. My link above of Max Warburg and I.G. Farben delves into this subject matter. Even though I'm agnostic, I respect all religious practices and see beauty in them, as well as a search for understanding. I love good people of the Jewish faith and think that Zionists will use anybody for their own nefarious purposes. I will leave viewers who try to paint me as anti-semitic with the now famous Norman Finkelstein video that negates that tired ruse...
